WE NOMINATE

Thomas Hilbish, 39-year old director of choral music in Princeton High School, who in the span of a single decade has established his music program, and himself, as "traditions" in a music-minded centre. This weekend, under Hilbish's direction, the High School's advanced 48-voice choir will be featured by invitation in Buffalo, N. Y., at the Eastern Division of the Music Educators' National Convention, an outpouring of some 5,000 school and college teachers of music, whose numbers will include the membership of the N. Y. State Music Association.

In accepting the highest "musical honor" that has probably ever been conferred upon the High School, the advanced choir (numbering 29 girls and 19 boys) will give a "demonstration of the standards of choral literature," presenting Haydn's "Theresa Mass in B Flat." The area of performance and the Haydn Mass are in keeping with Hilbish's contention that "we are interested in material that has something to say and not in run-of-the-mill concert selections." It is also his conviction that "good music and hard work build great choirs."

Hilbish, in developing a program which now enrolls nearly one in every four High School students in its advanced, intermediate and beginners' sessions, has consistently emphasized what the widely publicized Rockefeller Report on Education termed "the pursuit of excellence." Indicative of his success in teaching his organizations to face up to the challenges of achievement is the "extra rehearsal" the advanced choir brought into being several years ago on its own—7:30 A. M. Wednesday during the school year, with an arbitrary system of fines imposed by student leaders for unfortunates who might be as much as a minute late.

Originally an instrumental musician, or a self-described "jack of all musical trades," the Indiana-born Hilbish took the degree of Bachelor of Music at Miami University (Florida) in 1941 and, following four years of World War II duty as a pilot-instructor with the Navy air arm, entered Westminster Choir College to qualify for his Master's in Music. He joined the High School Faculty in 1948 and a year later became director of music in the Princeton Methodist Church, a post he continues to fill with distinction. He also serves as director and co-director, respectively, of the Hun School Glee Club and Princeton's Summer Music School.

Hilbish-trained alumni are uniformly grateful for his "profound influence," particularly for his insistence on high standards. One recalls: "he succeeded in removing P.H.S. from the ranks of schools staging a weather-beaten production of a weather-beaten operetta in the spring." Another reminisces about the annual Christmas Concert of the combined choral groups, totaling some 350 voices; another the premiere performance of a difficult work by Princeton's Roger Sessions. Equally relevant is the fact that 16 of the 48 youngsters singing in Buffalo this weekend plan to "major in music" in their respective colleges and universities.

For developing High School choral organizations with an esprit de corps and discipline lacking in many professional groups; for his thorough understanding of a generation too often condemned by unsympathetic elders; for strengthening the quality of this community's musical life; he is Town Topics' nominee for

"TOWN MEETING"
Opposition to "U.R." While the long-debated Urban Renewal program brings the Borough face-to-face with three key issues (1. the relocation of families and businesses and the all-important question of "housing opportunities;" 2. matters financial; 3. the Borough's future economic development), Sunday's prolonged public discussion centered about issue Number One—housing and the "residential integration" of the Princeton Community.
Over the space of two and one-half hours a gathering of some 160 persons, who overflowed the Council Chambers in Borough Hall and moved to the Parish Hall of Trinity Church on the invitation of Trinity's rector, Dr. John V. Butler Jr., heard opinions and questions set forth by upwards of 20 spokesmen, the majority of whom had previously expressed their opposition to Urban Renewal before Mayor and Council.

Positive Action. The lone morsel of positive action to come out of the meeting, with Mayor Male presiding and all six Council members in attendance, was the passage of a resolution to the effect that the Borough wishes to relate any future public low-rent housing to urban renewal relocations and wants "to retain" a maximum of 20 units as opposed to the 50 units previously reserved for the Borough by the Public Housing Administration.
The stormy moments of the session were confined to the 10-minute stretch preceding the passage of the resolution. Straughan L. Gettier, Unitarian minister, speaking as chairman of the Princeton Community Relations Group, lashed out at Dr. Harry W. Hazard, Director of the Housing Authority.

Mechanics Of U.R.
Late Tuesday, the Housing Authority's executive director, Harry W. Hazard, relayed to mayor and council copies of the revised Urban Renewal and Relocation Plan adopted by the Authority at its January 14th meeting and setting forth the "mechanics of relocation." The bulky document is scheduled for public hearing at the February 10th meeting of council.
Mr. Hazard, in his covering letter to mayor and council, said:
"We realize that your approval and that of the community will depend on the satisfactory solution of the problems of relocating displaced families and of relocating or adequately compensating owners of business properties in the area, as well as on a clear picture of the financial advantages to the borough taxpayer of using the Urban Renewal tool for betterment, rather than 'going it alone' on local funds."
Copies of the plan and Mr. Hazard's letter which were made available to the press before they were received by members of Borough Council, may be inspected at the Authority's office, 50 Clay Street, or at the borough clerk's office.

After expressing his organization's opposition to the erection of any additional public housing units in the John-Witherspoon area, and urging relocation of Negro families outside of the area, Gettier charged Hazard with paying "devious lip service" to other sites, with actions calculated "to set one group against the other" and with deliberately "arousing the apprehension of property-owners."
The accuracy of the Unitarian leader's statements was challenged by both Councilman Lester and John P. Wooldridge, 33 Springdale Road. The storm clouds were temporarily dispelled by motion of council terminating further discussion of the allegations and counter-allegations.

Highlights Summarized. Noteworthy developments and comments stemming from the Sunday meeting:
● The Council of Community Services through a thoughtful letter presented by its president, Mrs. Harold Sprout, clarified its first "Urban Renewal letter" of January 5th by spelling out its thoughts about the housing and relocation aspects of Urban Renewal:
1. No further building of public housing in the John-Witherspoon Area.
2. In interests of "residential integration," places of residence should be made available outside the John-Witherspoon area for a number of families roughly equivalent to the number being displaced.
3. Public discussion of the specific criteria to be followed by the Housing Authority in the acquisition of housing sites.
4. Endorsement of the basic principle set forth by the Mayor's Advisory Housing Committee in 1957: "Every ethical resource in the community must be mobilized . . . if Princeton is to become a living example of America at its best."
● The Rev. Benjamin J. Anderson, in seeking an answer to the question of "Where will we live?," stressed that housing is the mutual concern of Borough and Township and that Princetonians, in solving housing problems, must guarantee the "freedom to be our best selves."
● The Rev. John R. Bodo raised the question, "Who would be profoundly unhappy if Urban Renewal were dropped?" and subsequently suggested "a housing game," with families dislocated by Urban Renewal moving into the John-Witherspoon Area and with "socially prepared" families now in that area moving elsewhere in the community.
● Attorney Charles R. Sperling, representing business interests which would be dislocated by Urban Renewal, suggested that all of the benefits sought through Urban Renewal could be achieved by close Borough-P.M.I. cooperation.

● At the request of Burnett Griggs, restaurant-owner, whose properties fall within the projected Redevelopment Area, an editorial from the Trenton Times-Advertiser, of January 18th castigating Urban Renewal programs was read into the record.

● Mr. Gettler stated that the real housing problem "is not a Negro problem," but stems from "white fear, white insecurity" and from the lack of a "free housing market for Negroes" in the Princeton Area.

● Urban Renewal and public housing were categorized as a "political racket" by Mark A. Jones, 159 Library Place.

● Mayor Male, at the opening of the meeting, summarized the 1956 and 1957 reports of Mayor Sturges' Advisory Committees on Housing and pointed out during the afternoon that his administration has been concerned with the following "Urban Renewal requirements":

1. preservation of the First Baptist Church; 2. maintaining the integrity of Green Street as a residential street; 3. stabilizing the area between "the new street" and the Borough line as a residential neighborhood; 4. the importance of the through street, "something upon which we apparently all agree."

PERSONALITIES

Mrs. Robert B. Meyner, 55 Stockton Street, wife of New Jersey's governor (for exactly two happy years this past week) who will receive a special award as "The Nation's Ideal Wife of 1958" from Homemaker's Forum, a national, non-profit organization representing 3,000,000 housewives, at special ceremonies to be held next Wednesday at historic "Morven." Selected because of "her outstanding qualities as wife, homemaker and hostess to a public figure," the state's "first lady" will succeed Mrs. Richard M. Nixon, wife of the Vice President.

Charles, Harold, Peter, David and Michael Erdman of various Princeton addresses, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Erdman Jr., 20 Boudinot Street, and grandsons of Dr. and Mrs. Charles R. Erdman, 20 Library Place, who last weekend played hockey together in Baker Rink for the first time since Michael (Princeton '57) was a sophomore and the other four competed against him in behalf of an alumni team. This time, architect Michael and his four brothers, all executives of the New Jersey Aluminum Extrusion Company, New Brunswick, pooled their ice prowess and helped the Princeton Hockey Club Nassau's junior varsity, 8-2.

Dr. Richard Luecke, 46 Fisher Avenue, pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Messiah who this past week was elected president of the Princeton Pastors' Association for 1959. A writer as well as a preacher, Dr. Luecke has articles in the current issue of "Theology Today" and "Christian Century," and will be the author of a piece on Easter in the March issue of "The Pulpit."

Landmark To Go?

It has been reported from several different quarters in Princeton, without confirmation from church authorities, that officers of the Second Presbyterian Church, corner of Nassau and Chambers Streets, are weighing the merits of building a new church in the Township and of selling the church's property holdings in the heart of the Borough's business district.

Organized in 1847, the Second Church has occupied its present site since 1868. While the present building has been expanded in recent years with the addition of the Sunday School facilities opening on Chambers Street, the edifice still lacks the steeple planned by its architect shortly after the Civil War.

The announcements of the church's decision as to a possible new site in the western half of Township, and of its plans for disposing of its present corner-lot are said to be imminent.

ROUND-UP

NEWS OF NOTE: Two suits emanating from last June's four-death auto crash east of Kingston have been settled in Mercer Court, with John W. Hludinski of Pennington-Lawrenceville Road and Dr. Russell Edmonds of Province Line Road receiving $17,500 apiece on behalf of the estates of their late sons, John W. Hludinski Jr., 15, and Arthur Edmonds, 17. . . both judgments were rendered against Robert L. DeSandre, 18, of Main Street, Lawrenceville, the death car's driver, and Lawrencewood Inc., whose auto he was operating. . . the need for community gymnasium facilities for the general public was underscored last Saturday afternoon by Borough Sgt. Peter J. McCrohan, recreation officer, who said he was obliged to turn 42 youngsters out of Princeton University's Dillon Gym during an hour's stay. . . the police officer indicated the problem may be presented soon to the Borough Board of Education by Princeton Youth Program leaders of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association.

The Princeton Township Committee has set 8 p.m. February 3 for a public hearing on an ordinance to pave Van Dyke Road, actually an eastern portion of what will eventually be an extended Terhune Road, from Snowden Lane to Trinity Church's property west of Snowden. . . as passed on first reading by the Committee, the new strip will run for 1,130 feet and include a temporary turn-around, to be used by parishioners until Terhune is completed all the way from Snowden to Harrison. . . another ordinance passed on first reading was one stipulated by the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission, which would amend the current ABC ordinance. . . When finally endorsed after a public hearing at the next regular Committee meeting February 9, the amended ordinance will not allow Township tavern customers to sip drinks after midnight, even if served before 12. . . The ABC has ruled that the "reasonable time" phrase now covering such sipping is not "measurable" and therefore unenforceable. . .

The comprehensive Borough police report submitted a week ago by Dean Donal J. MacNamara is still being pondered by municipal leaders and police representatives who have also been considering PRINCETON "SKY-LINE" CHANGES: Newest addition to the Princeton scene is this 87-foot "bee-hive," actually the world's largest nuclear reactor owned and operated by private industry. Located in Plainsboro, it is set to go into operation this week to aid basic scientific research.

TOPICS Of the Town

"ATOMS FOR LIVING"

Nuclear Reactor in Operation. The United States' biggest effort to harness atomic energy for industrial use was scheduled to go into operation this week in an 87-foot "bee-hive" at Plainsboro.

The world's largest nuclear research reactor of Industrial Laboratories, Inc., it is owned by ten of the largest industrial companies in the nation. Ground for the project was broken nearly two years ago and it has been completed at a cost of $4,500,000.

The participating companies, representing a wide field of manufacturing interests in current-day America, will use the reactor in support of their individual basic and applied research programs. Operation was made possible when scientists brought together a sufficient amount of highly-enriched uranium fuel to start a controlled chain reaction.

The reactor will be raised gradually to its full power potential of five million watts, the level at which it will be sustained for research operations. Its addition to the nation's industrial scene was termed by Harry L. Hilyard, President of Industrial Reactor Laboratories, as "a major contribution by private enterprise to President Eisenhower's 'Atoms for Peace' program."

Mr. Hilyard called the Laboratories "a pioneering example of cooperation among leading American industries to apply the most advanced scientific techniques to the improvement of goods and services for our peacetime economy. He forecast the development of "radically new or improved products" as a result of plans for the reactor's constant use here. "Atoms for Living" has been selected as the name of the research project.

Ten companies which banded together to form Industrial Reactor Laboratories are American Machine & Foundry, American Tobacco, Atlas Powder, Continental Can, Corning Glass, National Distillers and Chemical Corporation, National Lead, Radio Corporation of America, Socony Mobil Oil and United States Rubber.

"Swimming Pool" a Feature. The reactor consists of a special concrete pool rising 32 feet from ground level within the "bee-hive" dome. The core of uranium fuel is situated at the bottom of the pool, where circulating water performs the dual function of providing additional shielding and removing the heat from the nuclear reaction.

A platform around the top of the pool accommodates the reactor control room and provides working space for various operations, including the handling of the uranium fuel beneath the water. Around the base of the pool are numerous facilities for experimental work, including special chambers in which materials under test are inserted for exposure to various types and degrees of radiation.

The permanent operating staff of the reactor will total from 30 to 40 scientists and technicians. The participating companies will also maintain staffs of varying sizes in their individual laboratories.

The IRL center is located on a 300-acre site in Plainsboro, between U. S. 1 and the Pennsylvania Railroad. Four other structures, including a laboratory and administration building, pump house, service building and cooling towers for water and air-conditioning systems, are adjacent to the "bee-hive."

on the budget Monday evening. Once again, the lack of turnout indicated the citizenry's conviction that top-grade schools require ample expenditures.

Superintendent of Schools E. Woodhull Hohrer, commenting on the "quiet" session, emphasized a preheating statement from Graham Hohrer, board president, who had stated previously that the larger budget is necessary to "maintain the high standards which have prevailed in recent years." Mr. Davis predicted an affirmative vote at the annual school elections February 10.

In Princeton Township, where a similar affirmative vote probably will be cast the same day, educators reasoned this week that they may have more of a battle on their hands than the Borough. True or not, Township citizens have been invited to attend a public hearing on the proposed budget at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the cafeteria of Valley Road School.

With two new schools to be constructed, the Township has problems not experienced by the Borough in recent years. The Township's total estimated school budget of $1,250,594 — getting closer to the Borough's figure each year — no doubt will be devalued a bit, since the Township Board of Education has asked for a hike of $271,492 — or enough to jump the Township tax rate some 28 points.

A breakdown of the Township appropriations reveals that teachers' salaries will require the heaviest single increase, $106,625. Part of this total is the result of the final phase of the three-year program of salary raises adopted two years ago in conjunction with the Borough school system. It also provides for nine new classroom teachers and eight special teachers.

Disincentive will account for an increase of some $56,000 in the forthcoming school budget, while there will be a jump of $16,000 in high school tuition due to an increase in the basic tuition (from $25 to $40 per pupil) and a larger enrollment of Township students at Princeton High. Janitorial salaries will go up $19,700 for five new men; principal salaries will double (to $32,600) because the number of principals will be doubled and almost $12,000 in additional funds for walks, fences and drives will include the cost of work already done on Magnolia Lane, plus a proposed sidewalk and necessary driveway repair work at Littlebrook.

A Muddy Mess

Muddy mornings,
Pigs can play;
How far off
Is ground hog's day?

—KAL N. DEER

Well, 12 days, to be exact but then maybe the ground hog likes it muddy, too. And that it was at mid-week, what with the temperature climbing into the 50's on Wednesday — after a low of 10 early Sunday morning.

Thursday will be mild, too, the Man reports, but colder weather from Canada and the Arctic Circle is on the way again. If it collides with the low pressure area moving in from the southwest watch out for white stuff in large batches. Otherwise, winter will return just with a rapidly-dropping thermometer.

Mores of a possible compromise notwithstanding, the employees' strike at Lahiere's Restaurant appeared certain to enter its fourth week as TOWN TOPICS went to press. Pickets were still parading up and down in front of the premises at 7 Witherspoon Street, the eatery was completing its second week back in business with a non-union crew and customers were still curious about the whole situation.

Highlight of this past week's strike activities was a two-hour court hearing Monday evening before Borough Magistrate Theodore T. Tuma Jr. Miss Virginia Cornell, a waitress hired by Joseph Christen, Lahiere's owner, at re-opening, three weeks ago, complained that picket Kenneth F. Davis of Trenton raped on the restaurant's front window with a cane, then threatened, "I'll get you when you get off, even if it takes all night." The plaintiff offered no witnesses in opposition to the four or five presented by the defendant, so the magistrate dismissed the charge due to insufficient evidence.

The third week of the strike, called by the Hotel and Restaurant Employees Union, Local 741, AFL-CIO was marked by bitterness and certain coincidental unpleasantness, as was the second week. Mr. Christen continued to receive a steady stream of phone calls that never produced anyone at the other end of the wire. One regular waitress, having refused to strike, was still off the job — Continued on Page 9

UBIQUITOUS PLAYERS

11 Fill 60 Roles. When the Princeton Community Players unveil their long-planned production of Dylan Thomas' "Under Milk Wood" this weekend, Princeton theatregoers will witness amateur thespians at their busiest, for 14 PCP members will fill no less than 60 roles. The comedy-drama will make its bow at 8:30 this Friday at the Playmill, with subsequent performances scheduled for the same hour Saturday January 30 and 31 and February 6 and 7.

Except for the play's two narrators—Michael Glenn and Betty Fussell—all PCP participants will portray three or four hearty and individualistic townsfolk from Llareggub, on the coast of Wales. Included in the cast, which author Thomas asks to characterize such wonderful personalities as Nogood Boyo, Polly Garter, Mae Rose Cottage, etc., are Georgine Hall, Emily Stuart, Kate Chaplin, Rowland Berthoff, Reed Armstrong, William Behrle, Anne Sheldon, Shulamith Oppenheim, Philip Collins, Kit Bannard, Demos Bakoulis and John J. McIlvaine.

In addition to the PCP members, a dozen young people from the Junior Players will lend their vocal talents to a chorus of children's voices. Junior Players involved are Charlotte Farley, Lindy Good, Ann Austen, Janine Palmer, Jill Fremon, Rob Peyton, Bill Hammer, Stephen Nulty, Jeannie Furniss, Pat Fairman, Vicky Skibbins and Suzanne Clausen.

Directed by John Becker, with Nancy Houghton assisting, "Under Milk Wood" will feature an authentic set by Jacques Kupferman, whose design was executed by Braxton Ellerbee. Byron Keene and David Lai will handle the lighting chores. Tickets priced at $2 apiece, may be obtained at 17 Chambers Street, by calling WA 1-9678 or at the Playmill box office on Alexander Street.

"A BOY GROWING UP"

Emlyn Williams to Return. Emlyn Williams will return to McCarter Theatre Saturday, February 7, to give his program entitled "A Boy Growing Up." Mr. Williams first presented the performance based on the stories of Dylan Thomas at McCarter in the fall of 1957.

"A Boy Growing Up" is a solo performance by Mr. Williams, but he makes no attempt to impersonate the late Welsh poet. In his appearance as Charles Dickens in the 1952-53 season, Mr. Williams first demonstrated his ability to hold the stage alone.

Tickets for the 8:30 program are still available, according to Dana Productions, which is sponsoring the appearance. They may be obtained from the Princeton University Store or by mail from 28 Campbell Hall.

THE PLAYHOUSE

The Inn of the Sixth Happiness. (January 22-27) refers to an abandoned spot in a remote mountain village of China which Ingrid Bergman—as a British servant girl—transforms into a pleasant stopping place for muleteers. Both the mandarin ruler of the village, memorably played by the late Robert Donat, and a tough Chinese Army colonel, impressively characterized by Kurt Jurgens, urge the heroine to give up her dangerous undertaking, but she is resolute. She halts a

Coming For Sure

Following a complete rewrite job on the book by talented Abe Burrows and some assistance on the music and lyrics by George Weiss, "First Impressions" is now scheduled to reach the Alvin Theatre in New York on March 12. The new musical is based on Jane Austen's "Pride and Prejudice," revised by Robert Goldman and Glenn Paxton of Princeton's class of 1953.

The two Triangle Show graduates have experienced their lumps in preparing their first Broadway fling, but, finally, they are coming for sure. The idea will be theirs, most of the words and music will be theirs and they hope a goodly share of hoped-for profits will be theirs. They should have an indication soon, for "First Impressions" will try out in New Haven starting February 2 and Philadelphia starting February 10.

Giselle McKenzie originally was slated to star in the Princeton-bred musical, but has been replaced by Polly Bergen. The latter's co-stars will be Farley Granger from Hollywood and Hermione Gingold, the noted British comedienne. Burrows will serve as director as well as playwright.

News Of The Theatres

foolhardy practice imposed by the Peking government, thereby earning the gratitude of women and girls; she induces Donat to give the prisoners work out side the prison, thereby spreading the story of her friendship to handits in the mountains.

As an adventurous missionary obsesses with the idea of devoting her life to comforting and aiding some of the unhappy people of China, Miss Bergman is outstanding. She is believing and inspiring, especially in the extraordinary scenes showing her leading 100 meagerly clad children across mountain ranges and icy streams—and finally through the Japanese lines. "Sixth Happiness" may seem a little too long (158 minutes); yet as produced by Buddy Adler, directed by Mark Robson and performed by the three principals, it proves to be one of the most rewarding motion pictures of the past few seasons.

A Night to Remember (January 28-31) isn't the first motion picture based on the Titanic story, but, like the best-selling novel of the same name (by Walter Lord, Princeton '39), it certainly represents the definitive work on that great human drama. Produced and distributed by the Rank film organization, here is a moving and exciting presentation with all the detail of a documentary and all the emotional appeal of a romance. It tells vividly the agonizing tale of the maiden voyage of what was then the world's largest, fastest and "most unsinkable ocean liner—a voyage which carried 1,502 people to their deaths.

The disaster is the main business of the two-hour film and at least three-quarters of the running time is devoted to three vents on the ship after she strikes the iceberg, when universal faith in the vessel finally gives way to utter chaos. Name stars are unimportant in this gripping story, for the British have a way of getting the most out of the smallest part in such movies. Sharp and vivid vignettes are the vital ingredients of "A Night to Remember," ranging from engine room to bridge and from steerage to luxury seat. Fortunately, they blend neatly for a powerful cumulative impact.

THE GARDEN

The Confessions of Felix Krull (January 22-24), in German with English titles, teams Lisa Pulver and Henry Bookholt, who apparently has a Continental reputation as a teen-age idol, in a rather routine comedy treatment of a loose rendition of Thomas Mann's last novel. Filmed in Germany, France and Portugal, the story revolves around a young German's credo, "I love the world and the world loves me." The young man sets forth to prove his premise, and there follows mistaken identity, love pursuits and the like for this boudier who considers himself an irresistible scoundrel. Perhaps the German teen-agers idolize Bookholt, but it is extremely doubtful if the world loves "Felix Krull."

The Old Man and the Sea (January 26-31) transfers Ernest Hemingway's classic novelette to the screen, with Leland Hayward as the courageous producer, John Sturges as the faithful director and Spencer Tracy as the Old Man of the title. It is an extremely difficult film to put across well, for Tracy is "on camera" for almost all of the running time (87 minutes)—by himself in a small boat. That Messrs. Hayward, Sturges and Tracy have accomplished their mission is evidenced by the fact that at least the latter is a strong contender for an Academy Award for his sensitive performance.

Many moviegoers are bound to dislike this motion picture, for the story is simplicity itself—a single incident without a beginning or an end in the conventional sense. The incident concerns a Cuban fisherman who hasn't caught a fish in three months and who is still admired by only a little boy. He finally catches a huge fish, but, before he can get it back to shore, it is devoured by sharks. Yet, the Old Man renews his faith in himself. Thanks to some fine camera work by James Wong Howe and his colleagues, a distinguished musical score by Dimitri Tiomkin and an appealing bit of acting by Felipe Pazos as the boy, Hemingway's comes off beautifully for those who enjoyed the book.

DO'S AND DON'TS

For Young Audiences. Parents who want their children to be happy theatergoers will be interested in the list of "do's and don'ts" issued by the Children's Entertainment Committee of the Borough PTA in connection with the coming program of entertainments for children. The season will begin at McCarter Theater on Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. with a performance of "Heidi" by the Rockefeller Players.

The Committee's suggestions:

Don't buy front-row seats for the youngest child. He is apt to be bewildered by bright lights, movement and the darkened theater, all of them experienced for the first time.

Do tell your child the story ahead of time. Youngsters like to know what's coming.

Don't anticipate trouble; for example, don't say to a little child, "Now, you won't be afraid of the big bad witch, will you?"

Don't ask your child questions about the play as soon as it's —Continued on Page 16

IT'S NEW To Us

FAKE FLORALS

Permanent Arrangements. The next time your favorite arrangement wilts, perishes and ends up in the trash basket, consider the possibility of a permanent arrangement of artificial flowers. Mrs. Henry A. Cotton, Jr. will make a bouquet for you of miniature rosebuds or magnificently flamboyant iris and you can hang on to it as long as you like. When the carnations get dusty, you scrub them with soapuds and lukewarm water and get Mrs. Cotton to put things back together again, and there you are for another round.

We have seen many of Mrs. Cotton's creations, some of them arranged in large, handsome alabaster vases, others composed around a small, ornate call collar or a miniature teapot. One particularly striking bouquet, formal and tall, consists of blue iris, white carnations, delphinium, an occasional spear of iris leaf and one or two stalks of broom for emphasis.

Another, not quite so large, uses pale yellow chrysanthemums of the shabby variety, white carnations, yellow spirea and the green of privet to heighten the other colors.

Incidentally, Mrs. Cotton has discovered that many women will not have a trailing ivy vine in any arrangement. Ivy, unless it's rooted and in a pot of earth, is supposed to bring bad luck when it's inside a house. If such matters do not concern you, Mrs. Cotton will use ivy if you like.

The large arrangements are suited to a formal, traditional home, but the little ones would be charming anywhere. One of them, only four inches high, emerges from a silver tea-strainer. Another uses a pitcher from a child's tea set. (Most of these miniature bouquets are composed of cotton and velvet flowers that cannot be washed.) In these tiny clusters you'll find pink rosebuds, forget-me-nots, sprigs of delphinium.

The flowers used in your own arrangement depend on the colors you want. You give Mrs. Cotton a general idea of color, size and shape, and she will buy the flowers, search antique shops for just the right container (unless you have a pet one of your own), arrange the flowers on their styrofoam base and even re-arrange them after you've given them a bath. Talk over your plans with her by calling WA 4-6866.

Here Come The Clowns

Shoppers who are footsore and thirsty and, quite possibly, cold and wet, too, will find a pleasant sanctuary in the rear of Viedt's, 110 Nassau.

The back part of the restaurant has been redecorated and christened "The Circus Lounge." Its striped plywood walls are now a cheerful shade of light turquoise. Half a dozen framed oils of circus clowns hang from the walls and grin down at you while you eat your muffin.

Three clowns come from Pete Burate of Trenton, the artist who painted the tiger-Nassau Hall mural in the front of the shop. They are colorful and at least life-size. Even the sad clown in pink and white plays artifice while you warm your cold toes.

Saturday, probably staying from 10 a.m. when the doors open, until 4 a.m. when the last gavel bang sounds, you'll find a variety that ranges from a brand new portable typewriter to an exquisite set of early 18th century French prints.

Three prints, two framed in gold and one in black, were bought in Paris many years ago. One is Les Invalides, one is St. Denis gate and the third is Versailles, with the King approaching by coach.

A Dresden bowl, 12 inches across, is square with a deep scallop in each corner. Each side shows a different fishing scene in white, gold and blue. You might stand it by itself on the Queen Anne mahogany tilt-top table. (This is a real Queen Anne table, not a reproduction.)

One of the most interesting sets to be offered at auction is a collection of six Williamsburg flip glasses. Each one is ten inches high, and that's certainly a lot of sherry flip, if that's what the "flip" stands for. The Smith Club hasn't suggested that you use the glasses, not for flips, but for flowers because they are vase-shaped. A delicate design has been etched in the side of each glass.

Here is another piece of antique glass: a crystal gravy boat, heavy, sizeable and probably destined to be used for flowers.

Smith also offers, for anybody with desperate need for a conversation piece, a three-panel mirror. One panel goes over your mantel and one goes on each side. The glass is pale pink, flecked with gold. Then there is a magnificent brass chandelier, high Baroque, with eight arms, French crystals and opalescent drops. Probably not for the rumpus room.

In the contemporary part of the catalogue, there's that typewriter we mentioned, a brand new Rotobroiler, a new Westinghouse toaster, an electric room heater with fan, a pressure canner, and some pleasant white quilted bedsprads printed with red, pink and pale green carnations.

Take a Dress. Also a pair of Jamaica shorts, a suit and a soft sweater to shield you against soft tropical breezes. Buy them at Mayne Mead's and away you go.

Donald Brooks has produced some distinguished resort clothes for the Nassau Street shop. There is a sleeveless linen in a dark natural hue. It has a facing of rust-colored linen and 16 tiny buttonholes bound with the same color. A rust jacket, hanging straight from a rack, collarless neckline, completes the ensemble.

Natural and café au lait linen have been combined to make a straight dress whose Empire waist is marked with one-inch fringe. The dress front closes on the diagonal with large round buttons.

It goes in at the hemline. That's a cotton after-five dress, em-bazoned with purple, violet and royal roses, all in fullest bloom.

Your after-nine dress might be a simple sleeveless cotton with a Peter Pan collar. Its petal collar is a row upon row of sitting ducks in red and navy. There's a little shirt in the same print.

It's a sleeveless white cotton with two rows of colored threads repeating themselves from shoulder to hemline. One row is reds and oranges, the other is greens and blues and the threads have been snipped off at regular intervals to look like — well, eyelashes.

Your sweater dress might be white abutting, so printed with ovals and circles of various colors that it looks like a tropical print. The ovals and circles have been cut out and appliqued to the white orkan sweater. This sweater is really a long bolero, without buttons.

A linen shopping suit-dress has wide straps, a square neck and short sleeved jacket with collar. A white linen dress has wide-eyed light blue and purple flowers printed on its surface. Tiny silhouettes mark the closing. Jamaica shorts to wear in Jamaica could be solid-color, of course, but why not a pair in heavy-duty cotton enchantingly printed in salmon and violet paisley? There is another pair of shorts, done in a linen print of aqua and violet hobs. Comes in red, too.

It's Cold up North. Maybe down south, too, but we pass that by. Bailey's, in the Princeton Shopping Center, puts a cold red ear to the ground and discovers that winter is definitely here.

Winter coats in this shop are made to be worn every day. They are ribbed poplin or wide-wale corduroy, most of them with broad shawl collars lined with alpaca. The coats are lined with alpaca, too, in most cases.

These are Weatherbee coats that can be dry cleaned without losing their water repellent qualities. Colors are grey, black or olive, lengths are short or standard. Besides the corduroy, there is a black and white tweed with black alpaca collar and a camel-hair with matching alpaca lining. Prices hover around $21.95-$29.95, depending on fabric and length.

Save this coat for a rainy day. It's 65 percent DuPont Zelan, washable, lightweight, matched to a hat lined with plaid, priced at $15.50.

A no-iron cotton dress has long-fingered stripes of maize, grey and green. The three-quarter sleeves are full and handied (not ruffled) and the Peter Pan collar has a neat dove-tailing of the stripes.

In the maternity department at Bailey's there are several interesting new dresses for all-season wear. Two of them feature a new engineering solution to the old expansion problem.

These dresses are one-piece with a very full back pleat from neckline to hem. At the waist, the pleat has been stitched together for about eight inches. You rip out these stitches whenever you need to, and allow the full pleat to extend all the way down the back. One such dress is pale sage green cotton, another is brown and white cotton tweed. Both have those wide white collars like those supposed to fool people but never do.

A wrinkle-resistant two-piece cotton maternity dress comes in navy with white pin dots. It has short sleeves. Fine for spring, and in to summer, too.

For another kind of uniform, Bailey's recommends a new all-terrain shirtwaist with roll-up sleeves, button-down collar. It comes in pink or blue, as well as white ($11.50) and in wash-and-wear cotton as well as dycron ($10.95). In cotton, it is available in white only.

Correction. Through a typographical error, the wrong size was given last week for a $24 panel of pre-finished Philippine mahogany available at The Building Center, Princeton. You can buy an 8 x 12 foot section of wall for this $24 price, a because a sympathetic union threatened to lay off her husband. And Labiere's bartender was still unhappy because he found his car disfigured by tar one night.

Earlier, spokesmen for the union tried circulating pamphlets at the corner of Nassau and Witherspoon, but were soon returned to the picketing area by a police officer. The mimeographed sheets merely stated that Mr. Christen has refused to recognize the union, so the striking employees have asked that customers refuse to patronize Labiere's "until Mr. Christen drops his arbitrary attitude and agrees to recognize our union."

While the pickets shivered outside this week, Mr. Christen did his best to lure Princetonians back into his restaurant. He has hired a pair of non-union chefs from South River, imported a pair of waiters from New York City and bolstered his one remaining waitress from the old days with two of her acquaintances.

Some observers said they thought Labiere's might experience difficulty in obtaining food and alcoholic beverages, if sympathizing union delivermen refused to cross the picket line. However, Mr. Christen commented, "We're not having any trouble getting all we need. We're open for business as usual—and we intend to stay open."

RATEABLES ZOOM UPWARD

By $5,300,000 in Township. The steady growth of Princeton Township was reflected on the tax map this week with announcement by the County Tax Board that its real estate had increased in assessed value by $5,793,500.

All but two Mercer County municipalities were credited with increases, ranging from $3,200 in Pennington Borough to just under $6,000,000 in Lawrence Township. The exceptions were the City of Trenton, which lost almost $190,000 in rateables, and Hightstown, which dropped $47,200. Trenton's decrease will mean a loss in tax revenue of about $15,000.

Mercer County's net increase in real estate for tax purposes amounts to some $21,000,000, with Princeton and Lawrence Townships accounting for more than 50 percent of this amount. Princeton Borough, where virtually all land is in use, gains $75,800 over the previous year.

Figures credited to other nearby municipalities: West Windsor, $2,500,000; Hopewell Township, $1,525,000; Hopewell Borough, $35,900. The county's 14 municipalities assess at ratios ranging from 20 percent to 100 percent of true value, with Princeton Township currently alone in the latter category.

MOTHERS WILL MARCH

For Dimes on Tuesday. This year's March of Dimes will take place in Princeton Tuesday between 7 and 8 p.m. and over 500 mothers will ring doorbells for the cause during that hour.

Money collected this year will go for medical services and research for arthritis, birth defects, disorders of the central nervous system, virus diseases and the continued care and prevention of polio.

Don't Go Near The Water

Members of two Princeton families fell through Carnegie Lake's ice this past week—between Harrison Street bridge and Harry's Brook—and their reported mishaps prompted Borough Sgt. Peter J. McCrohan, in charge of the lake skating program, to reiterate an earlier warning. The police officer reminded skaters that red flags for danger spots are being posted by his committee only between Harrison and Washington Roads, and in the immediate vicinity of Harry's Brook.

Sgt. McCrohan, who noted that more persons have taken advantage of skating conditions on Carnegie this winter than ever before, said his group feels skaters must skate at their own risk outside the supervised area. He stressed that the area between Harrison and Harry's Brook is particularly dangerous because fishermen have chipped holes in the ice there. Also, he warned against skating on the canal, pointing out that the canal's water level is ever-changing—sometimes providing plenty under the ice, other times creating air pockets.

Charlotte Dougherty is serving as treasurer; Mrs. Ralph W. Sharp is in charge of records and acknowledgments; Howard Waxwood is chairman for all schools in the area except Princeton High; Nelson Coughlin is chairman of the teenage program and Mrs. Robert Meyner is honorary Princeton chairman.

Members of the executive committee:

Mrs. Henry Abrams, Mrs. Samuel D. Atkins, Mrs. Duncan C. Augustine, Mrs. Elias T. Baker, Mrs. John Brinaker, Mrs. Lester Clew, Mrs. J. G. Copeland, Jr., Mrs. K. C. Cromwell, Mrs. Braxton Ellerbe, Mrs. Arthur T. Fen-

$100,000 Question.

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

At Sunday's Town Meeting it was evident that many local groups shared the Borough Council's determination to make suitable provision for the families living on Jackson Street who would be displaced under the Urban Renewal Project. Helpful suggestions made by Mr. Sperling and Mr. Moore gave promise that if the whole community cooperates, a solution can be found which will avoid the unfortunate situations which have arisen in Clay Street.

Another serious problem not really considered at Sunday's meeting is that of the Witherspoon business people who would be deprived of their means of livelihood if their properties were condemned under a Federal Urban Renewal project.

If the Borough were to go ahead without federal funds, these properties would not have to be delivered to "The Developer," who will have ample street frontage without them. Giving up Federal funds would, however, cost the Borough at least $100,000 more, a sum which Council naturally has to consider seriously.

But can the Princeton community in conscience save this sum at the expense of these few business people, who have worked hard and hard to obtain the expected security of owning the places in which they work? It is not as though their properties were needed for the street or any public benefit except cash saving. Unless they get proper consideration, who will feel safe in owning property in Princeton?

Y BOARD TO AD DRIVE
United Fund Gets Support

THE OLD AND THE NEW: Tribute was paid this week to the two YMCA board members who have served longest and to the newest member, B. Franklin Bunn (left) and the Rev. Dr. Charles R. Erdman (right) have been on the Princeton board for a total of 75 years, while Dr. Benton A. Bull (center) is the most recent addition. Kenneth B. Hawthorne, president, and other board members spoke in their honor. (Richards Photo.)

Members of the Board of Directors of the Princeton YMCA carried this week to conduct personally last-minute solicitations for the United Community Fund. Walter H. Scott, director of the drive, told the board members that only $10,000 is needed for the fund to reach its goal.

The suggestion that the board members might be effective in helping the fund came from Francis X. Nulty, a director. He read a list of the 60 area residents who have not yet been contacted, and each board member agreed to contact some of the persons on the list.

The directors also said they would consider increases in their individual pledges to the fund. The fund underwrites a large part of the YMCA budget.

BUILD FOR GUN TRUTH

Highstown Man in Custody. Roosevelt McNair, 27, of Highstown, was ordered held for grand jury action in Borough Court this week on a charge of threatening Evelyn Britton, 24, of 4 Slocum Court, with a shotgun. The alleged incident occurred at 8:30 p.m. on January 13.

In a court session that lasted until 12:40 a.m., Magistrate Theodore T. Thoms imposed fines on seven other persons, all but one for traffic violations. Robert Garrett II, 21, a Princeton University student, was fined $35 for disorderly conduct. Police said Garrett used offensive language on December 14.

Those convicted of auto violations included Walter Gurnell, 46, of 118 Witherspoon Street, $20 for careless driving and recommended for re-examination by Department of Motor Vehicles because of reported blackouts; Mrs. Arlene Levinson, 28, Princeton Pike, $30 and re-examination recommended plus indefinite suspension of her red license, for speeding; John W. Davis, 28, 174 Guyot Avenue, $30 for speeding; Charles H. Coleman, 72, 2453 Main Street, Lawrenceville, $20 for careless driving.

MRS. ELY HEADS SCHOOL

She Is Named President. Mrs. Roland Ely was elected president of the Princeton Nursery School at Monday's annual meeting. Also on the slate submitted to the Nursery's Board of Trustees by the nominating committee were Mrs. Ithben Ziesing, vice president; Mrs. Frank Mountcastle, secretary; Mrs. Coleman Donaldson, treasurer; and Mrs. Albert Wilson, assistant treasurer.

Named to the Board of Trustees were Mrs. Percy Clark, Mrs. Herbert Bailey, Mrs. Sheldon Judson, Mrs. Peter Lauck, Mrs. Thomas Cook, Mrs. Donaldson, Mrs. Ziesing and Mrs. Richard Colman. Members of the nominating committee are Mrs. Karl Behr, Mrs. Robert F. Gohsen and Mrs. Alfred Cluett Jr.

Mrs. Gilbert Lea, president of the board, reported that the school operated "in the black" during 1938. Expenses were kept within the budget and all expected revenues from the United Community Fund and tuitions were received, she said.

Mrs. Lea pointed out that "Princeton is fortunate to have a day nursery school equal or superior to any other such institution in the state, yet at the same time operating at the lowest cost unit per child." She attributed "this paradoxical circumstance" to four factors:

- The school, donated by the Matthews family in 1929, is owned outright.

- The teaching staff, headed by Evangeline Miller, "serves well beyond the call of duty."

- Gifts from friends of the school cut down "immeasurably" on expenses. Major donations last year came from the Penn Neck Community Club, the Needlework Guild, the Borough school, the Presbyterian Church School, Miss Fine's School and the Board of Trustees.

- The Board of Trustees "gives unstintingly of their time and services," eliminating the need for paid employees in many cases.

Extensive repairs and redecorating of the school building at 78 Leigh Avenue were undertaken during the year, Mrs. Lea said. Among them: new fire extinguishers, rewiring, major interior and exterior painting and conversion of a basement room into a playroom, fully equipped with donated equipment.

FUND FOR THE PILLARS.

Corporation Established. The Princeton Portico Fund, Inc. has been chartered by the state of New Jersey as a non-profit corporation. Its purpose is to raise money for the erection in Princeton Battlefield Park of the historic portico that was once part of the Maxwell house on Mercer Road.

The portico was designed by Thomas U. Walter in 1836. Contributions to the Fund are tax deductible. They may be sent to Shirley W. Morgan, 18 Nassau Street.

EXTRA MAIL FEE DELAYED
Summerfield Agrees to Wait.
Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield has ordered indefinite suspension of postal regulation which would impose a five cent penalty—in addition to the amount of postage due on mail with insufficient stamps. Summerfield's action came this week at the request of Rep. Edward J. Roy of Kansas, who has introduced a bill to kill the rule permanently.
The regulation was approved by Congress last year and went into effect July 1, 1958. Under authority contained in the law, Summerfield suspended it for six months on August 1, when postage rates went up, so as not to provide a nuisance for mailers who were not used to the higher rates. The rule was scheduled to go back into effect February 1.

CHANGES PROPOSED
Students Revise Constitution.
A number of proposed changes in the United States Constitution have been accepted by Princeton University undergraduates studying "Modern America" under Professor Eric Goldman. The changes were suggested by the 15 top students in the course after weeks of study and voted upon by the entire course of 371 students.

Although they left the basic fabric of the document intact, 41 changes were recommended, and all but one of the important revisions were accepted. According to Professor Goldman, trends evident in the revised document were strengthening of Federal over State power, of executive power over legislative power, and of civil liberties and civil rights.

The only important revision voted down was a provision to end filibusters. Principal changes accepted gave the President greater power to conduct foreign relations and to regulate foreign commerce, limited the Supreme court to nine judges, abolished the electoral college, re-phrased the Bill of Rights to give more sweeping guarantees of freedom, and provided that no one need be a witness against himself in any government proceedings.
Especially timely changes were those pertaining to the procedure to be followed in the case of illness of the President or the elimination of the President, Vice-President, and others in the line of Presidential succession. To prevent a recurrence of the L. B. Rock situation, the group voted a direct federal guarantee of non-segregated education through high school.

The 15 undergraduates who made the actual revision were chosen on the basis of their mid-term examinations and were excused from the final examination in the course. They met on separate evenings at the homes of preceptors to discuss changes and accepted all proposed changes by a two-thirds vote.
To conclude the "intellectual exercise," as Professor Goldman termed it, the entire course voted on each of the changes and then

SIX LITTLE TAILS

In the deep waters of the South Pacific surrounding New Zealand there lives a family of miniature LOBSTERS whose tails are renowned for their GOURMET appeal.

Those New Zealanders know a GOOD thing are when they TASTE it and being enterprising folks, they are now making available a very LIMITED supply of these DELICIOUS creatures for the American market.

The King's Court has been most fortunate in obtaining a supply of these TASTY morsels. If you have not experienced this new taste SENSATION, may we suggest that you do so soon.

Our chef PAMPERS each baby tail in his own lemon and butter sauce, splits them down the middle, and gently places them over the CHARCOAL fire just long enough to turn them a crimson red. Then they are served with your choice of baked or French-fried potato, our special salad and blue cheese dressing. . . Truly a delectable treat for the most discriminating palate.

Good 1958 Harvest

New Jersey had a good harvest in 1958. According to statistics from the State Crop Reporting Service, total production was up 26½ per cent from 1957 and even slightly above 1956, when all-time records were set for several crops.

The total Garden State harvest of all crops was 2,472,000 tons, as compared to 1,964,000 tons in drought-ridden 1957 and 2,446,000 tons in 1956. These high yields made up somewhat for lower prices which prevailed for a number of crops.

Grain production was more than double the 1957 harvest, and the state's hay crop was the largest since 1910, with the highest average per acre yield of any state east of the Mississippi. Although the 1958 vegetable crop was grown on about 3500 acres less than used for the 1957 crop, the output was up 16½. In fruit production, an all-time record peach crop made up for lower apple production to give an overall 3½ per cent rise for the top six fruit crops.

YV PLANS TRAINING

For Switchboard and Desk. Those interested in learning to operate the switchboard and handling the information desk at the YM-YWCA can attend training sessions Tuesday and Wednesday at 8. Switchboard volunteers — present and future — will meet Tuesday while the information desk group will gather Wednesday at the Avalon Place building.

The two groups currently number nearly 100 and include wives of doctors, university professors and computerers. Teen-agers also handle these duties.

Mrs. Malcolm S. Jones Jr. is chairman of the volunteers with Mrs. William Vachters serving as head of the information desk.

LEARNING FAST: YM-YWCA volunteers for information desk and switchboard duty absorb their new skills quickly under the able teaching of Mrs. Audrey Staats, in charge of Y volunteers, shown center. At left is Mrs. John W. Eckelberry of 261 Monroe Street, who put in her first hours at the information desk Friday afternoon. Mrs. Elizabeth Byrd of 32 Lytle Street has taken her first lesson on the switchboard. (Town Topics Photo by Alan Richards)

PRINCETON GIRL IN ITALY

Studying at Florence. Miss Ann P. Lea, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Lea, Province Line Road, is making a bit more than the normal tourist's trip to Italy. She is studying at the University of Florence for a year before entering Smith College next fall.

A 1958 graduate of Miss Ann's School, Miss Lea arrived in Italy on the Cristoforo Colombo in September and will travel in Europe before returning next summer. While at the University of Florence, she is concentrating on the language, history and art of Italy and is living in a student "pension."

PHS GIRLS ACCEPTED

Colleges Admit Six Early. Six senior girls at Princeton High School have already been notified that they have been accepted at colleges. Under a new Early Admission Plan, students filing applications for early admissions and taking the College Boards in their junior year are notified of admission in early December rather than May of their senior year.

Already accepted are: Patricia Brink and Helen Harrison at Smith; Bette Davidson and Charlotte Slider, both scholarship-winners at Mount Holyoke; Marie Lewandowski at Douglass; and Lynne Weterau, who was granted a scholarship at Barnard.

THOSE POPULAR BOOKS

Easier To Get at Library. The Public Library has subscribed to a new rental service to improve its supply of new books for the period when they are in heavy demand. Under the new service, there will be a monthly turnover of 50 books and a complete turnover of the full 300 supplied every six months.

Supplying multiple copies of popular books normally requires a large share of the book funds for books of relatively short-term interest, according to the library. Also, in the crowded home of the Princeton library, there is also the problem of shelving the extra copies after the demand subsides.

Books in the new service will be selected in accordance with library policy and will be loaned at the same three-cents-a-day rate as the current collection. The library book budget will only be spent for one copy of current books, which will circulate for only seven days while they are in demand, and will not be reservable.

TWO JOIN RCA STAFF

Both Are Physicists. Two physicists have joined the staff at RCA Laboratories at the David Sarnoff Research Center here. Ralph E. Simon, whose field is experimental physics, and Joseph A. Baicker, a specialist in nuclear physics, will both work in the physical and chemical research laboratory.

Mr. Baicker was graduated in 1950 from Yale and will receive his Ph. D. degree this February from Columbia. Mr. Simon graduated from Princeton in 1952 and is scheduled to receive his Ph. D. next June from Cornell.

UNITED WE STAND! It hasn't come to a point where either the Borough or Township school system will fall if the two don't hand together, but Mrs. John Gulick (left) and Miss Cynthia Barker think consolidation of the two districts makes good sense. For their views, and others on the timely subject, see Question of the Week below.

Question of the Week

Question: Princeton's two school districts have announced they will study the possibilities of closer cooperation with an eye toward greater economy and improved educational advantages. Do you hope that this might be the first step toward eventual consolidated public school systems in Princeton?

Location: Around town.

Mrs. John Gulick, 1000 Kingston Road, private school teacher: I think it's certainly something that's necessary, so you can say I hope it develops. The schools' bus systems alone show we need such consolidation. Consolidation would eliminate back-tracking — in other words, a waste of time, energy and tax money that could be spent elsewhere.

Henry A. Burger Jr., 434 Kingston Road, painter: I feel the consolidation of Princeton's school systems might be good. Five years ago, I voted against the large-scale consolidation measure for both communities. Now, I'm beginning to think it's a great idea — all the way. I don't have a school children of my own; yet, I can see the economies in such a move. For one thing, it would cut out the terrific cost of tuition the Township is now paying the Borough for high school students.

Miss Cynthia Barker, 32 Vandeventer Avenue, secretary-bookkeeper: I haven't lived in Princeton long enough to give you a knowledgeable answer. However, from what I have learned about the Borough-Township set-up and the dual departments that this set-up makes necessary, I'd say consolidated school systems would be a good idea. The combination would save money, and probably foster better schools.

Mrs. William S. Field, 55 Broadripple Drive, housewife: It's very hard to say at this time whether consolidation of the two school districts would be advantageous or not. "Consolidation" involves a good deal more than just the desire to make one of two buildings do for a greater area. It's a question of finance, and we won't know the pros and cons of that until the study has been completed. If the figures show that either the Borough or the Township would have to bear a disproportionate burden of any proposed new system, then consolidation would be rejected — just as the merging of the two municipalities was a few years ago. So, until the preliminary study has been completed and final figures are down in black-and-white, it would be impossible to give an answer to the question.

Old Subject, New Phase

Consolidation of Princeton's two municipalities, voted down by the citizenry in the fall of 1953, became a much-discussed topic of conversation in both Borough and Township this past week. Several different forces combined to put the controversial matter back in the news in a big way.

At approximately the same time, Dean Donald E. J. MacNamara, in his thorough survey of the Borough Police Department, and Messrs. Graham Rohrer and William L. Wilson, in a joint statement from the presidents of both school boards, touched heavily on the consolidation question. Mr. MacNamara recommended consolidation of the two police forces, while the board presidents announced plans to study the possibility of a merger of the two school districts.

Meanwhile, consolidation was still a major item of concern for the governing bodies of both municipalities. Township Committeeman Stanley C. Snoyer stressed cooperation in recent remarks about the status of the Joint Library Bill and Borough Council President Dan D. Coyle mentioned several aspects of consolidated effort in outlining objectives of his Committee for the Future of Princeton.

Mrs. Evan A. Hunley, 8 Sergeant Street, employee of Bellows: I think any close cooperation between the school systems would be good and that their working together can't help but be fruitful. Whether consolidation would be beneficial, I can't really say since I am a newcomer to Princeton and don't know the "ins and outs" of the town very well as yet. Coming from a large city though, I've found it's taken me awhile to get used to the division within the town.

Mrs. George F. Karch, 65 Patton Avenue, housewife: I know very little about the situation since I have no children in school here. However, I do feel that consolidation of the school systems will come about eventually with the rapid growth of the school-age population. As the difficulties and problems increase, it will be more and more important for the two boards to work together to solve them.

CONCERT PIANIST: Dame Myra Hess will play in McCarter Monday night.

MUSIC In Princeton

MYRA HESS WILL PLAY
Second concert in Series I, Dame Myra Hess, renowned British pianist, will play in McCarter Theatre Monday at 8:30 p.m. The second concert in Series I of the Princeton University Concerts, it has been chosen "Maria Prentice Memorial Concert" of the season to tribute to Mrs. Prentice's services to music in Princeton.

In recent years, Dame Myra has devoted much of her time and talent to the great classics of piano literature, from Bach to Brahms. Her program reflects this interest.

She will play Bach's Prelude and Fugue in E Major, Book II, No. 9; Prelude and Fugue in B Minor, Book II, No. 21 and the Toccata in D Major, Mozart's Sonata in C Minor, K. 457 will follow. After the intermission, she will play Schubert's Sonata in A Major, Op. 120 and Beethoven's Sonata in A-Flat Major, Op. 110. In 1929, Myra Hess organized a series of lunch-time concerts which were held in the deserted National Gallery in London. For six years, during the London blitz, these concerts gave comfort and enjoyment to thousands of Londoners and employment to many musicians. In recognition of her work, King George VI conferred upon her the Order of the British Empire, which carries with it the title of "Dame."

Each year, the Princeton University Concerts directors choose one concert in Series I to be "Maria Prentice Memorial Concert." Mrs. Prentice was a member of the Ladies Music Committee which later became the Princeton University Concerts Committee. During the years of Mrs. Prentice's activity in musical fields, Dame Myra appeared often in Princeton for concerts and the concert committee feels that it is particularly appropriate to designate Monday night's concert as the Memorial for Mrs. Prentice.

Mrs. Prentice raised a sum of money which was added to the Philina Fobes Fine Memorial Fund. This endowment and the Jessie Peabody Fitchingham Memorial Fund make it possible to bring to Princeton musical organizations and artists of high caliber. Since Mrs. Prentice's death, her family has added to the endowment.

All seats for the Dame Myra Hess concert have been sold. Standing room for 50 will be sold.

WARFIELD WILL SING

In Benefit Concert. The baritone, William Warfield, whom one critic has referred to as "one of the greatest artists of this or any other generation," will give a concert at McCarter Theatre on Thursday, February 26. He will appear under the sponsorship of The Friendship Club of Princeton. Tickets for his concert are available at the University store for $2 to $4.50.

Warfield has appeared with major symphony orchestras and oratorio societies, and he has also sung in musical comedy, folk opera and television. He played "Joe" in a movie version of "Showboat," and "Porgy" in "Porgy and Bess."

Critics have written frequently of his versatility as a singer. He gives to an Italian song the lyric, al bel canto lilt that the form requires, and to German lieder the music called for by Schumann and Brahms. He has appeared with many chamber music groups as an interpreter of Bach, and he sings spirituals with a quality which one critic referred to as "prophetic."

JEWISH MUSIC

Featured on Hadassah Program. Jewish Music Week will be celebrated at a joint meeting of the Princeton Chapter of Hadassah, the Women's Division of the Princeton Jewish Center and D'nai B'nai. The meeting will be held next Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. at the Jewish Center.

Cantor Marshall Glotzer of Har Sinai Temple, Trenton, will present a program of music, accompanied by Mrs. William Peskin at the piano. He has appeared with the Trenton Symphony and has made many appearances in concert, on radio and television.

Mrs. Thelma Sisk, Hadassah program chairman, and Mrs. Norman Donard, education chairman, have arranged an exhibit of recordings and books on Jewish music.

MUSIC CLUB WILL MEET

Piano and Vocal Program Set. A program of piano and vocal music will be featured when the Princeton Music Club meets next Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. A. N. Spindel.

The artists will be: William Masselos, pianist; Rachel Armstrong, contralto; Fadoul Sh. al-hal, baritone; and Maria Benu and Janet Wells, accompanists. The hostesses for the meeting will be Mrs. Lester V. Plum, Mrs. Donald Rugg and Mrs. Chester Shrop.

NEW STUDIO OPENS

For Piano Students, Sylvia Foodim Glickman, formerly on the faculty of the New England Conservatory of Music, has announced the opening of a piano studio in Princeton. Students who are interested may reach her at WA 4-7668.

A newcomer to Princeton, Mrs. Glickman is a graduate of the Juilliard School of Music where she studied with Everidge Webster. She also studied with Harold Craxton at the Royal Academy of Music, London, in 1955-56 on a Fulbright Grant. She received the I.R.A.M. degree, making her a Laureate of the Royal Academy, and she won the Hecht Award in composition.

The youngsters are members of a Valley Road eighth grade arithmetic class which is participating in a nationwide experimental math program. Mrs. H. B. Law is their teacher. Other participating teachers are Herman Mintz, Valley Road; Mrs. Carolyn Arvay and Mrs. Alice Reed, Quarry Street; Miss Catherine Campbell and Mrs. F. A. Shehadi, Miss Fine's and Mrs. Elizabeth Laird and Robert Leigh, West Windsor. Teachers are also going to school to learn about the new material. #### IT FIGURES

"The Zest of Discovery" How often does it happen that a child in an ordinary arithmetic class is seized by the scruff of his imagination and carried away to make new and exciting discoveries on his own?

Not, teachers say wistfully, very often. The gifted child, the one with that delightful something called "high quantitative aptitude," is frequently bored by arithmetic. The average child is either hopelessly baffled or duffed by drill.

Believing that math can be made interesting, even fascinating, the School Mathematics Study Group sponsored by the National Science Foundation, has established 12 mathematics study group centers which have just started to offer seventh and eighth graders a new math curriculum. One of these is the Princeton Center, composed of Borough and Township schools, Miss Fine's, and West Windsor.

Other centers have been established at the Universities of Arizona, Chicago, Colorado, Delaware, Louisiana State and Michigan and in the communities of Brookline, Massachusetts; Pasadena, California; Seattle, Washington and Westport, Connecticut.

Each center is experimenting with a group of teaching units in seventh and eighth grade math. Most of the material covered is familiar, but the units are presented from an entirely new point

Are You Literate?

"Every citizen, whether he uses mathematics vocationally or not, must be mathematically literate."

That is the goal of the National Science Foundation's new seventh and eighth grade math program, and to give parents an idea of what mathematical literacy means today, Town Topics poses a few puzzles based on the new experimental text.

1. Explain what is meant by associative, commutative and distributive numbers.

2. What is the number 1165, using a base of seven instead of ten? Is 12 odd or even in a base of seven?

3. Should we consider 0/0 to be a number and why or why not?

4. What hunch do you have about common multiples when compared with the least common multiple?

5. Try to prove Goldbach's Conjecture (that every even number except 2 is the sum of two prime numbers. Nobody has proved it in the two centuries since Goldbach thought it up, but eighth graders are willing to give it another try.)

of view, and with a wholly new emphasis.

"This is a completely mathematical approach to arithmetic," says Dr. William D. Parcell, assistant superintendent of Princeton Township schools and chairman of the Princeton Center. "Instead of teaching rules, we show the pupils that a mathematician proves every statement he makes in numbers by logical reasoning."

The teacher leads the children to reach conclusions inductively and then requires that pupils produce deductive arguments to show that a given principle is true.

"A boy or girl with mathematical aptitude soon learns to work out short-cuts, to do a lot of stuff in his head, and to think 'mathematically,'" Dr. Parcell continues, "the child who is less quantitative learns the basics he'll need when he's grown up."

Playing with Numbers There are 14 units in the course of study. Princeton schools began the first one "What is mathematics and why you need to know it," the week before Christmas.

Now they are going on with Numeration, The Natural Numbers and Zero, Factoring and Primes, Non-Negative Rational Numbers, Non-metric Geometry, two sections of Informal Geometry, Measurement and Approximation, Mathematics at Work in Science, Uncle Sam as a Statistician, Chance, Mathematical Systems and Divisibility.

the concept of "powers" and the use of numbers within parentheses, neither of which has previously been taught as early as eighth grade. Factoring and the use of roots have always been taught of as somewhat more advanced for this age, but the ideas are apparently not too difficult for average 13-year-olds to grasp.

The hurdle of "sevens" over, the class begins to wonder about other bases. How about a base of three and if not why not? Next: the binary system.

Radical literally. Future lessons will introduce "sets" and the intersection of sets, the complete quadrilateral and Desargues configuration. These exercises in non-metric geometry are designed to develop the pupil's vocabulary, encourage him to make simple, direct statements of mathematical properties, and give him experience in the use of mathematical language.

The section on non-negative numbers makes the point that the students themselves should do the reasoning. "Definitions of equality, sum and product should be on the basis of experimental work on the part of the student," and again, "The students should devise the short-cut. The short-cut should be devised for them."

In a section devoted to finding the simplest name of a fraction: "Do not let students cancel or make any marks reminiscent of that process. The essence of this procedure is removal of the unit factor."

"The exciting thing about these radical new lessons," says one Princeton math teacher, "is that even children in low math sections are stimulated and aroused. A girl who has been near the bottom of her eighth grade in arithmetic has grasped this procedure in a most astonishing way. And classes that were plugging along with sticks and bones and how to do income tax—why, it's just like a whole new world! It's such a paradox, the old income-tax-stock market curriculum was supposed to appeal to eighth grade children because it was practical, and actually this pure mathematical thing has infinitely more appeal."

So far, most of the new units are being taught in eighth grade. Seventh graders are included in the project, but in the words of Dr. Purcell, "We want to insure that seventh graders get the foundation they will need, so most of our work is with eighth graders."

After this academic year, each participating school in each of the 12 centers will write a report and make suggestions. Then, the experimental curriculum will be worked over next summer and presented again in the fall.

"The students should have as much experience as necessary, so that they will formulate for themselves the conclusions stated there," the teacher's guide says. "The zest of discovery should be theirs." The zest is theirs, apparently. The only puzzled minds seem to be parental. "Did you have any trouble with your homework?" one teacher asked a pupil. "No," the girl. "My only trouble was spelling it to my mother."

Report from THE MAYOR

Proving a Point, Sunday afternoon's special meeting of Mayor and Council may not have provided answers to all the questions raised by its agenda, but it served to underscore a line in the Mayor's message on New Year's Day: "We have encouraged citizen participation at meetings, but we have no room for there to participate effectively." There were not chairs enough nor space enough in Borough Hall and Council accepted the invitation of our Trinity Church neighbors to use their auditorium.

No Easy Answers, Sunday's meeting demonstrated again that there are no easy, push-button answers to the complicated human and engineering problems involved, however, that the thorough airing of the problems and the alternatives presents the only constructive approach to finding acceptable solutions. It is helpful when frank discussion of serious issues forces public agencies to clarify their policies, sharpen their goals, document their proposals, and submit their views to the wholesome exchange of views with those who accept the opportunity to state their objections to an important public undertaking.

Looking Ahead, The Finance Committee of Borough Council will spend some long hours with the Mayor and Borough Clerk over the coming weekend in reviewing the budget requests of the various departments and making the tough decisions that will be reflected in a budget for 1959. The target date for introduction of the budget — if all the details are sharpened — is January 23. Then the budget is published in advance of a public hearing on its contents.

Business and Pleasure, During the past week, the Mayor had an opportunity to talk with many of the Borough police officers about the recommendations contained in the survey report of Dean Donald MacNamara.

On Sunday evening, the Mayor and his wife were the guests of Borough and Township police officers and their wives at a dinner party sponsored by the local unit of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association. Of course, not all the men of this important Borough department could attend the fine social event — another reminder that this is one of the vital municipal services that must be manned 24 hours of every day throughout the year.

Rabies Control, The Borough Attorney has been asked to work out the details of a proposed new ordinance on inoculation of dogs against rabies.

The Board of Health presented some specific recommendations at last week's regular meeting of the Council. There are many technical problems to be worked out, and Councilman Lester, the Council Representative to the Board of Health, will confer with Township authorities and other interested citizens in shaping the outlines of an important policy.

Host to the League, On February 21, Princeton will again be host to the Mercer County League of Municipalities' monthly dinner meeting. The group includes elected and appointed officials and career staff of all Mercer municipalities.

Last Wednesday, the Princeton Borough Mayor was the speaker at the League's annual meeting in Hamilton Township and was encouraged by the presence of six Borough stalwarts: Borough Clerk Mooney, Attorney McCarthy, Deputy Collector Patterson, Health Officer Blake, Assistant Engineer Albrecht, and the new member of the Zoning Board, former Councilman Farr.

"Tell It to the Mayor!" Again this week the regular open house session will be held on Thursday evening from 7 to 10 p.m. at Borough Hall. These weekly sessions are informal, and no appointment is ever required.

The final January session will be next Thursday, January 29. In February, the four weekly meetings will be held on Fridays throughout the month.

Mrs. E. Harris Herblon, Mrs. Rasweller, Mrs. Thornley, Mrs. Cook, Miss Chester and Mrs. Kester Pleson will be her assistants. Also assisting at the auction will be Mrs. Lester Slattoff; Mrs. Leasing, president of the Smith Club, and Mrs. Leverson, Club treasurer.

THE PACK GATHERS

Cub Pack Will Travel. Members of the Dens that comprise Cub Scout Pack 43 will journey to Trenton Saturday for a tour of the Trenton Times. Boys and their fathers will dine together on February 23 at the annual Father and Son Banquet.

At the January meeting, Henry Summers received his Arrow Badge. Wolf Badges were awarded to the Randy Calcutt, Robert Ewerstein, Barry Lindstrom, John Morehouse and William Tukey. Wolf Badges and gold arrow points were presented to Jeffrey Buchanan and Heath Lawder.

THISTLE LODGE TO MEET Will Welcome Officer, Chief Daughter Miss Gladys Wheeler of Thistle Lodge 220, Daughters of Scotia, will welcome Grand Chief Daughter Mrs. Helen McLaren of Elizabeth, when the state officer pays an official visit to the Princeton Lodge.

The gathering will be held this Friday at 8 p.m. at 23 Witherspoon. It will be preceded by a dinner honoring the Grand Chief Daughter.

Mrs. Helen Berry, 22 Morven Place, will be received into the order by initiation at the meeting on Friday night. Miss Christine Carnegie will be in charge of refreshments.

HOW CAN ALUMNAE HELP?

Role of Clubs to be Discussed. Ways in which alumnae clubs can help create interest in a college and keep in touch with its activities will be discussed next Thursday, January 29, by members of the Trenton-Princeton Mount Holyoke Club. The meeting will be held at 8:15 p.m. at the home of Mrs. George Thomas, 21 Elm Road.

A panel of alumnae will discuss the subject. Those participating will be Miss Clara Ludwig, director of admissions at Mount Holyoke; Miss Mary Meeker of George School, Newtown, Pa.; and Miss Mary Tuttle, former president of the Alumnae Association. Mrs. Thomas Pace of Lawrenceville will be moderator. All Mount Holyoke alumnae in the Trenton-Princeton area are invited to attend the meeting. Anyone who is interested in attending should call Mrs. Benjamin Houston, 27 Random Road.

Boys who join the squadron will be instructed in the history and theory of flight, navigation, weather and subjects related to space exploration. The training program will include regular Scout activities and visits to McGuire Air Force Base.

The first informal meeting of the new squadron will be held at AFOTC Headquarters, West Tower of Helder Hall, next Wednesday, January 28, at 8 p.m. Another meeting will be held at the same time and place the following Wednesday, February 4.

GIRL SCOUTS TO MEET
Miss Atwood Will Speak. The annual meeting of the Princeton Area Girl Scout Council will take place Sunday from 3 to 5 at the home of Miss Marietta Atwood, 21 Morven Place. Leaders, heard members, Senior Scouts and interested adults are invited to attend.

The four Senior Scouts who have been invited to the Senior Round-Up in Colorado Springs this summer, and their two alternates will be introduced (see picture above). Included in the program are talks by Miss Atwood on the early years of scouting, and by Mrs. Douglas MacNeil, program chairman of the National Girl Scout Council.

SCOUTS WILL RALLY

Patrol Competition Scheduled. Boy Scouts of Stony Brook District will participate in an annual rally to be held this Friday from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. in Dillon Gymnasium, Princeton University.

The rally consists of patrol competition in knot tying, compass, trail-align and first aid. Winners receive prizes and the Troop with the highest average of points per patrol receives the Rally Trophy. Patrols from Titusville, Pennington, Hopewell, Princeton, Dutch Neck, Hightstown, Allentown, Cranbury and Plainboro will compete. Dr. Thomas Harvey of Princeton is district chairman.

THE CHILD GROWS

Film Shows How. A free film-lecture on the young child will be given next Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Parish House of Trinity church under the sponsorship of the Vassar Club of Central New Jersey.

The film to be shown is "Six, Seven and Eight-Year-Olds—A Society of Children," and its producer and narrator, Dr. L. Joseph Stone, will be present to lead a discussion of the film and to answer questions from the audience.

Dr. Stone is chairman of the Child Study Department at Vassar. His film is the third in a series, "A Long Time to Grow." It was filmed at the Vassar Nursery School and it shows the activities characteristic of the "middle years" of childhood when the child moves into the big world of school.

Those who have seen the film say that by helping parents, friends and teachers to re-experience childhood activities, the film stimulates a fresh appraisal of these activities and their value in growth and development. The film-lecture has been arranged by a committee consisting of Mrs. DeWitt C. Armstrong, chairman, Mrs. James Shriver, Hil, Mrs. Frederick S. Gallagher and Mrs. Evan Gray.

PTA PLANS MATH PROGRAM
For February 10. The date of the Valley Road PTA meeting on "Strengthening the Mathematics Curriculum" has been changed to Tuesday, February 10, because of a conflict with the Township school budget hearing this Tuesday. The meeting will begin at 8 in the Valley Road School auditorium.

Sheldon Myers, head of the mathematics section in Educational Testing Service's test development division, will speak on "The Changing Scene in Mathematics Teaching." William Purcell, assistant superintendent of the school, will report on the Township's efforts to improve mathematics teaching and its plans to revise the curriculum. Herman Mintz, a mathematics teacher at the school, will discuss the methods used at Valley Road. Questions and discussion will follow each of the talks.

MIDWIFERY FILM PLANNED
By Childbirth League. "All My Babies" is the title of the film to be shown Tuesday under the sponsorship of the Princeton Childbirth Education League. It will begin at 8:15 in the First Presbyterian Church.

Made by the Georgia Health Department, the film is the story of midwifery in that state. It will be discussed by Mrs. Richard Seliger, who has experienced two home deliveries. A social hour will follow the presentation, which is open to the public.

RCA BREAKS GROUND

For $800,000 Addition. Another addition to ever-expanding RCA Laboratories on U.S. 1 ("Research Row")—this one, an $800,000 project—got under way this past week and is scheduled for completion sometime late in the year. A two-story, red brick structure, in keeping with the rest of the sprawling RCA facilities, the current development will house the new Advanced Military Systems organization, and also will provide more space for the growing research needs of RCA Laboratories.

While awaiting construction of the addition, which will be a new wing adjoining laboratory 3 (the separate, smaller building in oak of the main RCA headquarters), the staff of AMS will occupy 2,600 square feet of rented space in the recently renovated Mason, Griffin & Moore building at 261 Nassau Street. A total of 25 persons will make use of a large conference room on the first floor of the former Bell Telephone building, while a larger area on the second floor will be divided into 15 offices.

A spokesman for RCA said his company will continue to lease the space at 261 Nassau, even after AMS has moved into its permanent quarters at the main plant. Though no definite plans have been prepared, he said he expects the downtown space will be utilized by study groups, including visiting researchers.

AMS is not a subdivision of RCA Laboratories, he stressed, but, rather, is part of the Division of Defense Electronic Products, whose job it is to conceive of systems, not actually make them. AMS' aim is to create and develop new and advanced weapon systems concepts, he added.

Postal Receipts Jump

The Princeton Post Office grossed $975,247 during 1958 and receipts are expected to increase to well over a million dollars this year. Postmaster Charles F. Murray reports, The 1958 gross was $113,471 higher than the preceding year's, continuing a five-year trend of annual increases of approximately $100,000. The picture:

1954 - - -	$518,233
1955 - - -	$612,241
1956 - - -	$763,172
1957 - - -	$861,773
1958 - - -	$975,247

100% DIVIDEND VOTED

Stockholders Must Approve. The Princeton Bank and Trust Company's Board of Directors has voted to grant a 100% stock dividend to its shareholders. The decision will take effect if the stockholders approve the necessary amendment to the company's certificate of incorporation at its annual meeting on Tuesday.

The stock dividend would increase the capital stock of the company from $350,000, divided into 35,000 shares with a par value of $10 per share, to $700,000, divided into 70,000 shares of the same par value. The bank has been advised by counsel that the additional shares would not constitute taxable income for the stockholders.

The additional $350,000 of stock value would be obtained by transfer of that amount from surplus account to capital stock account. After such a shift the capital structure of the bank would be as follows:

Capital stock .....	$ 700,000
Surplus .....	$1,000,000
Undivided profits .....	$ 300,000
Total .....	$2,000,000

The increased number of shares is expected to result in a wider market for the bank's stock and eventually in a larger number of shareholders. Persons holding shares as of the close of business on January 14 are eligible to vote on the proposed dividend, either in person or by proxy.

Carl C. Schaefer, Raymond C. Brickley and Albert Salzman are eligible for re-election as directors. H. C. Sturhahn will be proposed to fill the unexpired term on the board created by the death of Joseph M. Stillwell, one of the charter directors of the association.

Mr. Bunn will report on increases in the demand for mortgage money to finance new construction and purchase of existing property and also in the demand for property improvement loans during 1958. Net mortgages of $1,260,000 were granted.

Net savings to the association increased by $1,240,650 during the year. Savings dividends of $170,076.31 were paid to members. Reserves were increased to levels exceeding Federal requirements.

FUND DECLARES DIVIDENDS

Pays 1 Per Share. The Board of Directors of the Nassau Fund declared a dividend of 20 cents a share as the final payment to shareholders for 1958. The dividend, payable to those who held shares as of December 26, 1958, represents all income and realized capital gains of the fund.

On January 5, shares of the fund were valued at $11.70 — a jump of $1.65 from December 31, 1957 — and net assets were $1,076,316.32. Total dividend payments for 1958 amounted to 63 cents per share.

MARSH'S HONORED

Prescriptions Hit 1,000,000. Marsh and Co. has joined a small group of American drug stores which can claim to have compounded over two million prescriptions. The 100-year-old Nassau Street establishment received a plaque from the Leder Laboratories Division of American Co. this week citing it for this achievement.

Presentation of the plaque coincided with a delayed celebration of the store's 100th birthday, postponed because of remodeling done this fall. Crowell Marsh came to Princeton from Rahway in late 1858 to establish the business, which then included chemicals, paints and seed in addition to drugs.

Records of the two million prescriptions are preserved in the back of the store's quarters at 39 Nassau Street. Originally, prescriptions were copied or transcribed into large ledgers, but later they were simply imprinted on long spindles.

These spindles are now stored in a cast-iron rack about six feet high. Each spindle has been turned into a shaggy gray cylinder by frequent searchers for a particular prescription to make a refill.

Miss Marguerite McClenaghan, secretary-treasurer of the firm and granddaughter of the founder, replenished the spindles with a card-filing system, where prescriptions are now kept. Miss McClenaghan is the only member of the founder's family directly connected with the store, and she shares responsibility with Melchert Landau, president of the firm.

NEW LAB HEAD NAMED

Marcus Will Lead FMC Unit. S. Philip Marcus has been appointed administrator of the central research laboratory of the Food Machinery and Chemical Corporation on U.S. 1 in Princeton. He will replace Dr. William L. Davidson, who has been named director of the company's activities in the field of rocket propellants.

The appointments were announced by Dr. Emil Ott, the firm's vice president in charge of research and development, chemical divisions. Mr. Marcus, who has been given the title of business manager of FMC central research, will supervise both the Princeton lab and the company's special projects lab at Buffalo, N.Y. His offices will be in Princeton.

Mr. Marcus assisted in the planning and construction of the Princeton unit and he has been active in its management since it opened in August, 1956. Holder of B.S. and M.S. degrees in chemical engineering from the Carnegie Institute of Technology, he has been with FMC for 20 years. His home is at 1512 Stuyvesant Avenue in Trenton.

FIRM LISTS DIVIDENDS

Surber General Devices Advisor. General Devices Inc., specialists in mechanical and electronic switching methods and telemetering systems, exceeded its sales goal of $1 million in 1958. John F. Brinster, president, reports. The firm has declared an eight percent stock dividend plus a cash dividend of five cents per share payable January 3 to all shareholders on record as of January 15.

In addition, Mr. Brinster announced the company has contributed the equivalent of one month of each employee's wages to its Employee's Profit Sharing Plan.

slon Plan. The First Trenton National Bank has been named trustee of the fund. The president said the firm expects to double its sales in 1959.

Professor William M. Surber of the Department of Electrical Engineering of Princeton University has been appointed consultant to General Devices. Known for his work in the fields of microwave measurements, nonlinear systems and feedback control systems, Professor Surber holds a B.S. degree in physics from the University of Richmond and both M.S. and Ph. D. degrees from Princeton.

NEW MODEL SHOWN

At Manalapan Lake Development. A three-bedroom, split-level model home went on display this week at Manalapan Lake Estates on 1141 Acre Road, Jamesburg. The new model, priced at $16,990, joins the six-room ranch house already shown at the development.

TIGERS LEAD RACE

Top Dartmouth by Half Game. A pair of weekend victories over Columbia and Cornell moved Princeton's basketball team into first place in the Ivy League. The Tigers will stay there alone until a week from Saturday, when Dartmouth has a chance to tie them by beating Brown at Providence.

Hopes are that Princeton will match the Indians game for game until the two teams clash head on at Hanover on February 21. The return contest between the pair is set for Dillon Gym just six days later.

Oddly, a year ago, the home team led in each case, Dartmouth earning a 77-58 triumph here but falling victim a week later to one of the Tigers' staidest defensive performances. The Orange and Black held the Indians to 53-46, their only loss at Hanover last year and the lowest point total they made in 27 games.

Princeton's problem is to achieve victory on courts where it has had trouble in recent years—namely Providence and Cambridge. Ivy action will resume for the Tigers with a trip to play Brown and Yale away on the weekend of February 6 and 7.

After weak Columbia and Cornell quintets come here the

"THE HAWK:" Jim Brangan, Princeton junior, shows the profile that has earned him that nickname as his dead-eye shooting has put him in the lead in the Ivy League's scoring race. Brangan's 97-point five-game total is good for a 19.9 average and has done much to help turn back all five Ivy opponents by margins of 9 to 25 points.

following Friday and Saturday, February 13 and 14, the all-important journey to northern New England is on tap. Night before the Hanover invasion, the Orange and Black faces Harvard at Cambridge and any tendency to look ahead to the game with Dartmouth could result in the Tigers getting knocked off before they meet the Indians.

New York Trip Successful. The steady play of big Joe Burns, supplementing good performances on an alternating basis by Jim Brangan and Carl Belz, provided a winning formula for the Tigers against Columbia and Cornell. The Lions, as bad as 1-12 on the season and winless in Ivy action, surprised by giving Princeton more trouble than Cornell.

It was a 75-68 final in New York, after Columbia had erased a 36-28 halftime deficit to take a brief 47-16 lead. At that point, the Tigers saw the need to put an end to wild passes and ill-advised shooting, replacing it with a brand of ball good enough to outscore the home forces 18 to 3 in the next four minutes.

That made it 61-51 and although both Burns and Carl Belz fouled out, the margin was sufficient to provide Princeton's third straight victory over Columbia on the latter's court. Brangan was held to six field goals on 19 shots, well below his usual production, but engaged 10 of 11 fouls to lead both teams with 22 points.

Burns not only clipped in with a dozen points but grabbed 20 rebounds when Carl Belz had an off night. The latter took only three shots from the floor and was held to seven points, but Art Klein with 13 and Hiram Belz with 11 gave the Princetonnians four men in double figures.

Cornell Fades Early. At Ithaca, Cappy Cappon's forces twice lost in 11 straight points, spurring to leads of 15-3 and 46-33. Before the first period was over, the Red had closed to 33-31 but Princeton regained control of the action and led by 12 to 15 points during most of the second half.

Captain Lou Jordan was the only gun for the home forces, getting 33 points to increase his average of well over 20 per game in five meetings with Princeton since 1956. The next player on the Cornell score sheet Saturday had five, as Jordan collected 63 per cent of his team's total.

Meanwhile, Carl Belz hit for 32 to offset Jordan's spree, the figure ranking as the Tiger leader's best in three years. Burns raised his total to 16 and between them, the two controlled the backboards in steady fashion.

OTHER SPORTS

One-Sided Results. It was feast or famine for most Princeton winter sports teams last week.

For example: John Conroy's squash team swamped M.I.T., and Cornell, 5-0 and 8-1, but the wrestlers were trounced by Lehigh, 23-2, and the track team lost to Navy, 87-22. The swimmers beat Columbia, 47-38, but were swamped by Cornell, 65-21. N.Y.U. topped the fencing team, 15-12, as all teams shut down activity for the term-end exam period.

PHIS LOSES AGAIN

Ewing On Top. 35-50. Princeton High's only home night game of the current basketball season proved the popularity of such evening events as an SRO crowd turned out to watch the Little Tigers meet their intra-campus rivals from Ewing. Both clubs responded by playing interesting if not high-calibre, ball — and the game was forced into overtime before the visiting Blue Devils finally won with a late flourish, 55-50.

That the two Mercer lives were evenly matched is reflected in their identical records following the heated contest (2-4), the necessity of an overtime period and the fact that the lead changed hands and was very much in doubt all the way. The clubs' return match in Ewing the night of February 10 should be well worth the 10-mile trip.

In Friday's encounter, the Blue Devils got off to a shaky start and led 13-10 at the end of a quarter, but only after the score had been tied four times. Tony Boccanfuso, registering 10 marks in eight minutes, helped PHIS leave the floor with a tenuous 29-27 halftime advantage, and that margin held up as both teams played in cozy in the third period, scoring 10 points apiece. Opening the scheduled final round, Princeton tallied five straight points and seemed to have matters sewed up, when Ewing retaliated with eight in a row to retake the lead. Two foul shots by Boccanfuso were needed to send the game into overtime at 48-48.

Doug (Motorcycle) Hayes hit on a jump shot to provide Princeton with a short-lived overtime edge, then the Little Tigers ran out of gas and the Blue Devils took over for keeps. Dick Ritter, with 16 points, was the big gun for the winners, though Boccanfuso managed high-point honors with 18. Sophomore Jim Barbour was the other Little Tiger in double figures, with 10.

Still refusing to follow suit, the Princeton Jayvees defeated Ewing's juniors, 50-45, to afford Coach Tony Borzak some hope for next year's varsity. Bill Cranston netted 13 points to pace the triumph.

This Friday, the Little Tigers will play a night game in South River, and next Tuesday afternoon they will meet Somerville —Continued on Page 26

Princeton compiled a fine 41 per cent floor average at Ithaca and again gave evidence of the type of defensive play it must have if its title bid is to remain serious. The Tigers do not see action again until a week from Saturday, when an improved Rutgers quiet takes the Dillon Gym floor at 4:30. The Orange and Black won last month at New Brunswick, 70 to 47.

HOCKEY TEAM TOPPED

Almost Shut Out at Hanover. A goal by John McBride with seven seconds left was all that kept Princeton's beleaguered hockey team from being shut out at Hanover Saturday. All that kept the final score from being much higher than 3 to 1 was a 52-save performance credited to sophomore goalie Barry Van Gerbig.

For the uninitiated, saves generally average around 30 per game, and rarely go as high as 40. Against three opponents — Michigan State, St. Lawrence and Dartmouth — Van Gerbig has kicked out a total of 151 shots, so that anything less than a series of standout performances by the 20 year old St. Paul's alumnus would have scored him on the Tigers far up in double figures.

Dartmouth capped a goal in each of the first two periods and then followed with three more in the last. McBride's solo effort came at 19:53 and ranked as his 16th goal of the season.

It kept alive his streak of having scored or assisted in every game but one that Princeton has played this season, unusually prolific ability that has placed him among the scoring leaders in the east. That's quite an achievement.

THE COUNTRY DAY SCHOOL HOCKEY TEAM

Shortly after 2 o'clock last Saturday, a 28-game winning streak that Princeton Country Day School compiled over a four-year period in hockey came to an end. Under normal circumstances, such an event is merely cause for commiseration and not congratulations but in this instance, the PCD skaters fully merit a round of applause.

A factor in Country Day's 1-0 defeat at the hands of the Taft School Juniors was a game it had played just six hours earlier, one that was actually finished just before the sun rose, leaving Princeton for its annual two-day invasion of Connecticut on Friday, PCD ran into rain, sleet and snow that made use of the rink at the Kent School impossible.

By the time the mixed precipitation ceased, it was 9 p.m. While Kent boys studied for Saturday classes, PCD players scraped the ice and next morning at 5:30 both teams dressed for a game that was played under lights and the stars.

Faced by Captain Steve Cook with three goals and an assist, other goals were credited to Charlie Stuart, Mac McKerrin, Bill Smuser and Nick Hare), Country Day topped the opposition, 7 to 1.

In a 40-minute drive in Watertown followed and at 12:30 Country Day was on the ice again to face Taft. PCD outlasted the home forces, 3 to 8, but a fine performance by the visitors' goalie and a lone shot that bounced into the Blue and White's cage made the difference. On the Taft team were three tenth-graders (a year older than PCD seniors) from a squad whose victory earlier had trimmed the Princeton Frodoes.

The long winning streak came to an end because Country Day stuck eagerly to its policy of hunting out opponents in New Jersey, Connecticut and Pennsylvania when a combination of hoarding school restrictions and lack of ice time here makes it impossible for other teams to come to Princeton. If Coach Lester Tibbals can schedule as many as ten games this season, eight of them will be played away from home. This Saturday, the Blue and White will travel to Connecticut again, with New Canaan Country Day as the foe. February will be marked by a journey to Pottstown, Pa. to face Hill School Juniors and possibly to other games in Philadelphia and northern New Jersey.

Country Day players were anything but downcast over the end of their 28-game streak, one of them commenting enthusiastically that "the game we played at 6 o'clock was really great!" Plans to "start a new streak in our next game" and the general belief that hockey is well worth all the time and travel required to play a full schedule are a part of long-standing PCD tradition.

Seminary gym. Hun will meet Germantown before taking a two-week break for mid-year examinations. (For a late report on this Tuesday's engagement with Bryn Athyn in Pennsylvania, turn to page 27).

ST. PAUL'S FIVE LONES
Scoreless First Period Coutry. Down 1-0 at the end of the opening round, St. Paul's School basketball team could not overcome the deficit and lost to Cathedral of Trenton Saturday. It was a 44-34 final.

By half-time, the Princeton quintet had dropped in ten points but the visitors had bused in another dozen to raise their total to 26. Paced by Danny Corvino with 14 points, St. Paul's cut into the visitors' margin during the second half but could not launch a strong enough rally to avoid absorbing its third defeat in four games.

The Holy Angels quintet will be here Friday for a game, with Our Lady of Sorrows playing a return contest Saturday. Next Tuesday, St. Paul's will meet Witherspoon on the latter's court.

BOWLING NOTES
Still Going Strong. Having sparked his team to a first-half victory two weeks ago, Frank Stofko continued his hot streak this past week and tossed a fifty 639 series (199-207-233). His line work wasn't enough to keep his Kingston club out of a five-way tie for second place as Princeton No. 1 jumped into a quick second-half lead in the Tri-County Firemen's League by sweeping its first match.

Behind Stofko in the scoring department were Larry Du Pray, 211; Harry Kahny, 203; Joe Cermette, 202, and George Luck, 200. In the Princeton "A" League, Pros Aschbacher's 606 series (214-200-192) stood out and Bill Ba-ble's 304 was the only other 300-plus game, while, in the Princeton "B" loop, a host of bowlers did well: Boots Lettel, 229; Hal Frazer, 220; Don Snyder, 212; Bud Cavanaugh, 211; Dick Edwards, 208; Don Arcamone, 204-201; George Paria, 204, and Wilton Rose, also 204. Nick Sculetati again dominated the Industrial League, with a 222, followed by Bob Cooke, 220; Rudy Lehnert, 214, and John Maier, 204.

Team-wise, the big news was Tiger Garage's clinching of the first-half crown in the "A" circuit, with one week's play to go. The victorious combination (70 wins) defeated Bill's Shoes (62), Kase Cleaners (60), Knights of Columbus (56), Farr Hardware (54), the Farmers (48), Grover Lumber (44), Nelson Glass (42), Shelton Motors (42) and Keller Plumbing (32). National Guard and Maul Electric (28 apiece) tied for the lead in the "B" loop, ahead of Jefferson Plumbing and the Annex Grill (24 apiece), while Maier & Baldwin (66) stayed ahead of Nassau Del (63) in the Industrial League.

Peg Brown and Betty Kleiber shared distaff scoring honors this past week, the former rolling a 206 in the Women's Industrial League, which saw the 5 Jills (18) hold a slim edge over Giffels Electric (16), and the latter registering games of 205 and 185 in the Princeton Women's Bowling League, which featured Tiger Bus' margin (14) over the Betty Wright Shop and Nassau Bootery (12 each). Behind Peg were Barbara Danser, 199; Ann Amalfitano, 178, and Betty Cobyerty, 173, while Betty's partner, were Marilyn Silverstein, 191, and Marilyn Lowe and Millie Trani, 177 apiece.

PBA WINS CLUB
Beats Revolver Club. Cecil

Jones and William Golden of the Citizen's Rifle & Revolver Club fired pace-setting scores of 81 and 267, respectively but a four-man team representing the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, Local No. 130, shot better balanced totals and thereby defeated its opponents in a close revolver match, 1122 to 1119. The event was held Friday at the club's headquarters on Princeton-Highways North Road.

Those who won for the police team — firing slow, timed and rapid rounds — were Sgt. Leslee Anderson (284) and Richard Steiner (282) and Patrolmen Michael Liu (283) and Anthony Diafori (273) of the Township force. Frank Cooney (279) and Stan Shukley (262) were the other members of the Citizen's Rifle & Revolver Club, which put up such a good fight.

TENNIS IN TRENTON

Ham Richardson to Play. The top-ranked tennis player in the U. S., Hamilton Richardson, will head a charity exhibition in Trenton Friday, February 6. The event will take place at the Trenton Armory under sponsorship of the Junior League of Trenton.

HEIGHT-LESS HUN HUNT

Two Defeats in Three Days. Despite a 16-point performance by Tommy Petrone in one game and some spirited play by all hands in another, Hun School's basketball team lost a pair of contests in three days' time last week. Powerful Croydon Hall, with a formidable win streak, did the trick a week ago, 74-41, while George School dropped the Red and Black to a 24 records Saturday with a 63-51 verdict.

Petrone's fine outburst, his only double-figure exhibition since the Christmas holidays, came against Croydon Hall here; however, the visitors used their height advantage throughout the game and succeeded in building up a big margin. In the losing cause, Captain Tom Horwich hit for 11 markers and Alan Frank contributed 10.

Against George in a game played in Pennsylvania, Petrone was held to seven points and only John Scop could score consistently, leading the Johnny Hons with 13. Once again, height was the deciding factor, though Coach George Sellick's charges fought hard all the way and were behind by a mere six points, 32-26, at halftime. In addition to the height problem, Hun showed once more that it cannot keep the same players in double figures with any degree of regularity.

This Friday at 3 p.m., in the

Storms are Hard on the Clothes

They're hard on the homemaker, too. It is exasperating to hang out a clean wash, then have a sudden storm knock down a clothespole, rip clothes off the line or set them dragging on the ground. If you have an automatic clothes dryer you can forget about the weather. No baskets to carry, no clothespins to bother with, no clotheslines to break or fall down . . . Clothes are dried quickly in the dryer. They're handled gently and they are easy to iron, as wrinkles haven't time to set.

SMILE FOR DADDY: The Rev. Henry W. Heaps has been taking movies of his family since 10-year-old Wallace was a baby. The Kingston pastor became interested in photography in the summer of 1947 when he was in Europe. He traveled through southern Sweden, Holland, France and England (part of the time by Army truck), with a group of Presbyterian young people. In this family portrait, Mrs. Heaps holds Wilson. ## News Of The CHURCHES

KNOW YOUR PASTOR

(16th in a Series)

Meet Mr. Heaps, Kingston Presbyterian is a young people's church, full of children, high-school-age boys and girls and young parents, all eager to participate in church activity: remodeling the Sanctuary, forming teams for evangelic visitation, or softball, joining Bible study and prayer fellowship groups. Much of the credit for the success and vigor of this activity belongs to the personable young pastor of Kingston, Henry W. Heaps. He believes that the church program should center around the family unit, from the youngest, nuzzling mother in the unique balcony "Cry Room," to the head of the family in the pew drawers.

However—and most important, in Mr. Heaps' view — the church program is, in the words of its pastor, "A Christ-centered program."

"Unless a church has a Christ-centered ministry," says Mr. Heaps, "it becomes only a secular, civic organization, an organization doing fine things, to be sure, but still not a Christian Church."

Kingston's pastor also strives to make his church a true "community" church, without undue stress on denomination. The church recreation program (soft-

Pastors Elect

The Princeton Pastors' Association has chosen its officers for the coming year.

Dr. Richard H. Luecke, pastor of Messiah Lutheran church, will serve as president. The Rev. David L. Crawford of the Second Presbyterian church will serve as president. The Rev. David L. Sims, pastor of the Mt. Pleasant A.M.E. church will hold office as secretary-treasurer.

The new officers succeed Dr. John R. Bodo, who is completing his term of office as president; the Rev. Straughan L. Gettler, out-going vice-president; and Rabbi Joseph H. Gelberman, who has been secretary-treasurer.

ball, croquet, horseshoes) is a community affair. The summer Bible school is not only a community affair, but an inter-racial, inter-denominational one as well.

There is a practical reason for this emphasis. The church stands in the center of a sprawling area, drawing its members from Monmouth Junction, Kendall Park, the environs of Kingston and even from Princeton.

To help people from these outlying areas, the church has a bus which transports children to Sunday school, young people to conferences and the congregation generally, any place it wants to go.

The Sunday School bus run, incidentally, is for parents who aren't quite up to getting children off to Sunday school at 10 a.m. Mr. Heaps was once asked by a mother to get the child dressed for Sunday school, as well as transport her there. But even a pastor with "a shepherd's heart" has to draw the line somewhere.)

"The Shepherd's Heart." This phrase comes from Dr. Clarence Mackay, president of Princeton Theological Seminary, and it is a phrase that Henry Heaps took to himself when he was a student at the Seminary.

"One of my chief concerns is to develop 'the shepherd's heart,'" says Mr. Heaps. "A minister must have a real concern for his 'sheep,' helping them by pastoral visitation, counseling and Biblical preaching. I have the feeling that I'm not doing as well as I could in this line, but I keep at it, anyway."

The Kingston pastor did not start out in life as a shepherd, but as a farmer. Born and raised in Maryland, he spent his youth on the 600-acre dairy farm belonging to his father. The drive to be a medical missionary began to be felt when he was about 10, but the pressure of farm work always seemed to come between him and his desire for a Christian vocation.

He did take an active part in Presbyterian youth work, however, and in 1943 he took time off from his father's farm to attend the church council that formulated the Westminster Fellowship program of the Presbyterian Church. In 1947, he was elected moderator of the National Westminster Fellowship Council, and in that year he went to Oslo as delegate to the second World Council of Church Youth.

By the autumn of 1949, he felt quite firmly that the life of a prosperous farmer had no purpose for him, and he entered John Hopkins night school, the first step in the long road that ended with graduation from Princeton Seminary in 1954.

Mr. Heaps accepted the call to Kingston in February, 1954 and was installed the following June. In the years of his ministry, the church has more than doubled its Long Branch Decisive Victor. An 83-42 wallpopping was Princeton High School's dish at Long Branch Tuesday, the defeat lowering the Little Tigers' basketball record to an eloquent 2-and-7. None of the Blue and White operatives could make it into double figures, with varying high scoring Tony Bocanuso pared to seven.

The home forces held no more than a 16-10 lead after eight minutes but sailed out to a 36-22 margin by half-time. In the final two periods, Long Branch more than doubled the PHS output — 22-10 and 25-10.

The contest was close until midway in the second round, when Coach Tony Borzok's forces lost a brief 22-20 lead. The shore pullers then came out of the fire with a 15-point surge in the final round. The home team held on in the 37-38.

Neither team hit double figures during the first three quarters, with the shore only 12-13 for Du Pennsylvania quietest at the intermission. Play then picked up noticeably, but the Red and Black finished with its fifth setback of the season. Tom Horwich of the loozers threw in it to account for almost half his team's points.

Colts In Dimes Benefit

The Baltimore Colts, world's professional football champions, will stage an exhibition basketball game Monday at 9 p.m. against the Trenton Colonials in the Notre Dame High School gymnasium, Lawrenceville-Trenton Road. Preliminary events on the program will begin at 7:15.

Headed by Johnny Unitas, the quarterback who engineered the Colts' victory over the New York Giants in the overtime playoff game last month, the champions will bring a number of their top players in Trenton for the event. The Colonials currently are in second place in the New Jersey State Basketball League and are rated as one of the top teams in the Delaware Valley area.

A feature of the occasion will be the auctioning of a football autographed by the Colts, with another to go to the holder of a lucky ticket. All contributors to the March of Dimes will receive tickets for the drawing.

record on Friday.

With Charlie Smyth accounting for ten points, the Blue and White trimmed Wardlaw, 24-22, on the crowded court Friday afternoon. Monday saw Barry Crenshaw pace Valley Road to a 25-9 verdict.

Pennington Prep this Friday and West Windsor on Monday are the next two games on tap. Both are home contests for Country Day.

membership and other services on its rolls. The average Sunday attendance is 275. In 1948, Mr. Hespi, rabbi, said, "The congregation is growing. They now have four sons who keep the old-fashioned manse in Kingston. There are literally three or four guinea pigs and a very exciting new Christmas pony."

RABBI LEAVING
To Begin New Work. Rabbi Joseph G. Gelberman of the Princeton Jewish Center has announced that he will leave his post as rabbi of the congregation on January 1. He will begin a new enterprise in New York to be called "The Listening Rabbi in the Temple for Personalized Religion." The concept of "The Listening Rabbi" is one that has keenly interested Rabbi Gelberman for many years. "The idea behind it is that communicating with the church is not an assembly line affair," the Rabbi says, and in his new work, he will provide personal, individualized religious help for people who are disturbed, but not in need of psychiatric treatment.

"I hope that religion, utilizing the newest discoveries of psychology, will aid men and women to achieve new depth and inner integration," said Rabbi Gelberman of his enterprise.

People will come to the "Temple of Personalized Religion" for private, individual "services" based on the Hasidic spirit of joy, enthusiasm and humility. Rabbi Gelberman feels that the new work will be close to his parishioners to counsel them on intimate problems, and that his new work will fill this need for people of all denominations.

TWO STORY RANCH:
for $32,500

We're not being deliberately confusing - it's just that the basement of this ranch house is so sensational that it actually is another floor of living space. Completely dry, part of the basement is a nice playroom; another section a cozy study-bedroom combination; a third is laundry and storage room; and a fourth is a full bath. To move upstairs, the ground floor is attractive too. Large living room with Swedish S fireplace and Thermopane windows, separated dining area, small but efficient kitchen, three nice bedrooms and bath, fine closets, attic fan and excellent condition make for comfort and eye-appeal. Near a school and busline on a lot with trees, its location too is convenient and pleasant.
